

Killester

Killester Travel

China

Â

Â

China is a fascinating country of extremes - the cities are modern with huge populations however you can still find quaint tea houses and admire the thousands of years old buildings and excavations that are clear manifestation of the greatness of the Chinese people through the centuries. You can literally be left staggered at the Great Wall and the army of terracotta soldiers of Xi'An, admire the beauty and harmony of the Forbidden City, the Summer Palace and find peace in the many Buddhist temples scattered around the country.

^

^

^

We have now being taking golfing groups to China for the last eight years and unfailingly people have found this country worth visiting - a perfect destination to combine sightseeing, culture, shopping and relaxation. If you are planning a first trip to China, we highly recommend you include Beijing - one of the most imposing and large scale cities of the world perfectly integrating the modern and the historical sides of Chinese society.

Â

Â

Â

Shanghai is also a must visit city - it is one of the most modern ones on the planet and it is worth a visit to admire the amazing architecture and engineering of its many skyscrapers - the combination of the historical Bund and the modern buildings is enough to warrant a trip!

^

^

^

